Hiring Manager
RockaiDev
Alexandria, Egypt

Dear Hiring Manager,

I previously interviewed with RockaiDev for a Full-Stack Development role when I was still building my foundation. Since then, I have dedicated myself to mastering full-stack development — from building responsive frontends with React and Next.js to architecting backend systems with Node.js and Express.js. I have grown from a beginner into a developer who has shipped a live, production-grade platform serving real users across six countries. I am now confident that I have the technical depth and drive to contribute meaningfully to your team.

My strongest achievement is paradisesharm.com, a multi-language tour booking platform (EN/AR/RU/DE/IT) that I architected and deployed end-to-end. It serves 174 monthly active users across 6 countries (US, EG, IT, IE, SE, UK) with a Next.js frontend, Express.js API, MongoDB database, and Traefik reverse proxy. I built the full observability stack with Prometheus, Grafana, and k6 load testing (220 concurrent VUs), integrated Google Analytics and PostHog tracking across 651 total users, and implemented production-grade security with RBAC and JWT refresh token rotation. This experience taught me what it takes to build, deploy, and maintain a real production system.

What excites me about RockaiDev is your mission to lead Egypt tech revolution through SaaS platforms, AI solutions, and transformative software. As Technical Head of a 600-member ICPC community at my university, I have already been leading and building for impact. I am eager to bring my full-stack skills, production experience, and growth mindset to your team and contribute to the groundbreaking work you are doing across the Middle East.

Best regards,

Ahmed Saleh
